

The Seven Wastes

The elimination of non-value added activities or waste from any process is one of the most effective ways for any business to increase profitability. Eliminating the 7 wastes is a means to achieving the Lean ideal in either service or manufacturing. Waste elimination reduces cost, improves cycle time and quality and increases value to the customer.

We educate and train your staff on the identification and removal of waste in the workplace. They will understand the seven different types of waste within a process and how they occur and what techniques are required to eliminate or reduce them to increase your quality, cost and delivery performance

The Eyes for Waste workshop is for organisations in any sector and of any size. Pragmatique have improved their skills and capabilities to deal with operational issues, improve productivity and quality with techniques that increase workforce engagement.

The workshop introduces tools, techniques and checklists to remove waste and the understanding of the tools & techniques is developed through the use of real life and live examples from your organisation to embed the learning and link the advantages of use in the workplace during the workshop, ensuring you see immediate benefit from your investment.
