

Principles of Project Management

Your business is unique so it makes sense that any training and support you receive should also be unique. For our products we sit down with you, listen and understand your needs and adjust 'plug and play' with the product till you end up with your tailored product. What we have found is you end up with your people trained on what they need, not what another consultancy has pre-packaged for you.

Educates and trains your people, giving them the knowledge and confidence to successfully deliver projects to specification, on time and on budget.

Pragmatique have run Project Management in-house training courses all round the world in over a dozen countries, across different industries and different types of Projects - Capital, Change and Improvement. Our courses are based on the Project Management Institute methodology.

This course cuts through the clutter of project management jargon, covering the core principles of Project Management, in a language your people can easily understand.

We give your people the essential parts of all Project Management knowledge and experience in a fraction of the time.

Duration

The Principles of Project Management

workshop is delivered over 2 or 3 days, depending on your needs. We have found 3 days allows us to go into more depth for some of our clients.

Day 1:

Project Management Context
Project Scope & Requirements
Project Time
Project Costs

Day 2:

The relationship between Assumptions,
Risks, Issues and Change
Project Risk Management
Project Communication

Deliverables

Participants emerge with their 'own real project'

- Scoped & Defined
- Project timescales set
- Cost of project determined
- Risks identified

Who should attend?

The Principles of Project Management course is suitable for any managerial and non-managerial level. We tailor it to your needs whether it is for project managers, team members or even management to gain an understanding of what they should be asking of their project teams.
